Potential LEO Launch Markets

- Commercial human spaceflight (tourism)
- Basic and applied research
- Aerospace test & demo
- Education
- Media and public relations
- Remote sensing (vehicle based)
- Satellite deployment
- On-orbit transportation
- Satellite servicing
- Resource acquisition/utilization
- Manufacturing

Suborbital Demand

- Commercial Human Spaceflight
- Satellite Deployment
- Basic and Applied Research
- Technology Demonstration
- Media and Public Relations
- Education

Additional potential demand (not estimated)
- Game changing unknowns: price reductions, research discoveries, commercial applications, major sponsorships, others
- Growth: Multiple flights per day, $1.6B over 10 years
- Increased demand from marketing, research successes, and flight operations
- Baseline: Daily flights, nearly $600M over 10 years
- Constrained: Multiple flights per week, $300M over 10 years
- If there is a significant drop from today's demand

NASA currently drives LEO demand for human spaceflight
- NASA demand is well understood in near to mid term
- Contracts are in place

Limited systematic assessment of non-NASA markets available publicly

Most targeted potential customers (non NASA) currently appear to be
- ISS partners (research, tech demo)
- Other nations (training, space experience, research, tech demo)
- Satellite launch

Anecdotal information about other potential applications

On-Orbit Destination Demand

- LEO Platforms
  - ISS
    - New demand may be associated with availability of commercial transportation
    - May be concern regarding potential procedural barriers to use
    - Limited demand to date for ISS availability for research; may be related to transportation access
  - Bigelow
    - MOUs with 7 governments
    - Recent NASA contract
    - No other announced sales to date
- Moon/Mars
  - One reported ticket sale to date
  - Target customers (when characterized) typically high net worth individuals or national actors
Potential Benefits to Government of a Commercial LEO Economy, Commercial Human Spaceflight

- Enhanced capability
- Buy by the yard
- More opportunities to test
- Researchers and citizen scientists
- Increased visibility of space activities
- Reduced costs
  - Launch
    - Competition
    - Launch rate
  - Technologies
  - ISS operations
Market Dynamics

- Proposed systems largely viewed as technically credible
- Mix of business experience, from global entrepreneurial superstars to technologists building companies
- Meaningful investment with potential for more
- Business case not proven; uncertain demand and revenue potential
  - Analysis, ticket sales, suggest meaningful commercial demand for suborbital services. Supply side somewhat uncertain
  - Potential commercial demand for orbital services and LEO destinations, limited analysis
  - Unknown demand for Moon/Mars destinations, very little data
- Major challenges: magnitude of investment is massive, technology is complex, timelines are long
The Tauri Group is an analytic consulting firm focusing on science and technology enterprises. Our Space and Technology Practice delivers policy analysis, business strategy, and technology assessment to government and commercial clients. We believe leaders require objective, data-driven analysis, free of vested interests and preconceptions, to make the right decisions. The Tauri Group cultivates a culture of engagement and partnership with our clients, whose success we take personally.
